GENERAL JONES CELEBRATES

Famous Iowan Commemorates His Ninety-Second Birthday Anniversary.

REMARKABLE VIGOR OF THE OLD MAN

His Clear Memory Rich in Reminiscences of Public Men and Events of Half a Century Ago.

DUBOQUE, Ia., April 11.—(Special Telegram.)—General W. J. Jones will be 92 years old tomorrow and will celebrate his birthday at a family dinner.

General Jones has many notable contemporaries in the United States senate, James W. Bradbury of Maine, the oldest living senator, and ex-Governor Alpheus Felch of Michigan.

Two years ago, when the legislature of Iowa celebrated his birthday, General Jones was much more active than he is today. He was able to travel the length of the country, and to lead the grand march at the charity ball, and to lead some old friend at an occasional game of billiards.

General Jones has a remarkable memory, and his health is excellent. He can see well enough to write his own name and to distinguish faces and is able to walk about the city alone, but the erect carriage and elastic step have gone and with them his taste for travel and excitement.

His health requires greater care than formerly and he goes abroad only on pleasant days. The vigilance of his old friend, General Jones, has preserved every letter he has received since 1820.

General Jones has preserved every letter he has received since 1820. He is frequently solicited by mail to part with letters from prominent men of the country. His requests for his own autograph come from all parts of the country.

Lately these have been increased and his health has received more attention than his correspondence. He has never used tobacco and he feels that his regular and temperate habits have lengthened his life.

The usual complimentary resolutions were passed, the presiding officers and chief clerks being complimented for their services. Much hilarity was indulged in and felicitous remarks were made by Speaker Byers and President Parrott of the senate.

CHARGED WITH "FIXING" A JURY.

W. B. Lytle of Sioux City Guilty of Embellishment.

SIoux CITY, Ia., April 11.—(Special Telegram.)—County Attorney Hallam has been awaiting the discharge of the jury on the case of W. B. Lytle, charged with the embellishment of $2,000 from a local commission firm, for which he was bookkeeper, to proceed against one of its members on a charge of accepting bribes.

Lytle has already been found guilty once, but secured a new trial. The jury was ordered to return a verdict for the "fixing" of one jury. He declines to give the money, but offers to give the same thing has occurred frequently of late, and that an example must now be made.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty late today. Lytle's attorney has offered a fine of $1,000 for the return and conviction of the murderers of his son and $500 for the arrest and conviction of the murderers of Matthew M. Bartlett.

Afraid of an Investigation.

JEFFERSON, Ia., April 11.—(Special Telegram.)—The effect of the grain buyers' protest at Manson is already bearing tangible fruit.

The Illinois Central has now refused to make a rate to the grain buyers of Manson that would enable them to compete with the smaller surrounding towns on the Rock Island and Des Moines, Northern & Western, with the result that the greater part of the grain that should have been marketed at Manson has been hauled to these other points.

The market buyers said they would close their elevators and refer the matter to the Interstate Commerce commission unless the Illinois Central made rates to them by a certain date. But the rate was not lowered. New other roads are taking action to prevent coming in contact with the Interstate Commerce commission, having sent letters to the agents at all points on their line, warning them that there must be no favoritism shown in the granting of freight rates, and that agents disobeying would be dismissed from service. These circulars have been sent out with the greatest secrecy, for fear that if the Interstate Commerce commission discovered that such a circular was being disseminated they might be called to account and past history looked into.

Important Legal Point Settled.

DUNLAP, Ia., April 11.—(Special Telegram.)—Quite an important school teacher case was decided by the Iowa supreme court today.

The jury decided that no meeting was held and that consequently no adjournment was made, and the old treasurer, J. H. Patterson, was the lawful treasurer, notwithstanding the fact that another meeting had been held and the old treasurer had been elected.

The horses came together two or three times, fouling each other, for almost a fortnight. Pepper got the worst of the foul and was thrown out of his stride, but Cadmus won easily at the end, and was by far arranged for the finish.

THE INVISIBLE MAHATMA.

He is Located in New York but Kept in the Dark.

The theosophists have got a new Mahatma, or initiate or leader, says the New York Sun. Furthermore, it has been discovered that he is right here in New York.

The theosophists at the headquarters in Madison avenue will not announce in so many words that he is in New York, but it is plain from their conversation that he is.

He is a foreigner, though. He is to become known to the world, and he will give a few of the elect a peek at his identity for the next twelve months.

It may seem to the world at large an odd thing to say that a Mahatma is in New York, but the visible leader after they have had two leaders so much in evidence as Mme. Blavatsky and William Q. Judge, so it is. They are now in the hands of the theosophists.

William Q. Judge is still alive and has often been talked of as Judge's successor; but however good the theosophists are in their own estimation as to the real identity of the new leader, they are strenuous in their denials that Mr. Besant is of him in the place of Judge.

Another target, it is said, is trying to swerve the theosophists to a Hindu movement and to form a new order of theosophists, and to form a new order of theosophists, and to form a new order of theosophists.

When a Sun reporter went to Mr. Claude Parrott, the theosophist leader in New York, he said that he was not a theosophist, but that he was a theosophist.

The announcement made in this morning's paper, "is substantially correct, wherever you get it, but there is not very much to be got out of it."

"Do you know the new leader?" Mr. Wright was asked.

"I have knowledge of him," he replied.

"That I cannot say."

"Is he a native or a foreigner?"

"He is a foreigner."

"Is he a child?"

"I refuse to answer."

"Is he to be at the convention?"

"He is to be at the convention, but he is not to be at the convention."

"What is his name?"

"I refuse to answer."

SOUTH OMAHA NEWS.

Tuesday afternoon the first annual association will be held at the Exchange building.

The association for the improvement of the Union Pacific, the Burlington, the Missouri Pacific, Rock Island, the Milwaukee and the Union Stock Yards Railway company.

The officers are J. H. McConnell, president, and W. T. Campbell, secretary.

The association has been in existence since June 1, 1895. Under the old system each road, for its own protection, was compelled to keep a day and night force of car inspectors on duty here whether business was brisk or not.

Under twenty-five and thirty men were employed. There was trouble all the time on account of the different inspectors of the different roads and private line companies, causing dissatisfaction and delay.

Often a car of packing house product would be sent to the Rock Island and it would be rejected by the Rock Island inspectors on account of some defect in its condition, would prevent a fast run to the consigned market. While the inspectors were wrangling over the defect, the car would be kept in the yard and the shippers generally, and to shippers generally, and to shippers generally, and to shippers generally.

On June 1 the new system was put into effect, with W. H. Cressy, a disinterested man from the Santa Fe system, as chief inspector. He had entire charge of inspecting, repairs and oiling.

There are 300 to 400 differences among the inspectors are done away with and the work is being done with about half the force formerly employed. Under this management the inspectors are done away with and the work is being done with about half the force formerly employed.

The scheme has given satisfaction to the packers, the railways and to the shippers generally. It has given satisfaction to the packers, the railways and to the shippers generally.

The saving to all interested has amounted to something like $100,000. It has given satisfaction to the packers, the railways and to the shippers generally.

On Tuesday has been called to hear reports of the officers and make such changes as the year's experience dictates.

Settlement Reached with Jetter.

In 1889 Jetter paid $837 into the city treasury as a tax for grading a portion of South Thirtieth street.

The street had been opened to the city. Jetter, however, never agreed to it to the city. The tax for the same amount paid by Thomas Ryan was refunded in consideration of his dedicating his part of the street to the city.
